

Athletic Handbook Highlights

- Attendance: Teachers will take attendance both in person and on Zoom each day. Student-athletes must be present for each class in order to participate in practice or games.
- Academics: If a student is failing two classes at any time during the season, she will be placed suspended from competing in athletics until the grades are raised to passing.
- Discipline: There is a new discipline policy this year for activities and athletics. Please read the new policy in the handbook. If a student-athlete receives ten disciplinary points, there will be athletic consequences in addition to the Student-Parent Handbook outlined process for Review Board.
- Communication process: Student-athletes are expected to take ownership in the communication with her coach and her teammates. When an athlete has questions or concerns about her team experience, she needs to communicate in person before a parent gets involved. After that step, if there needs to further conversation, the parent may email the coach to set up a time to visit along with their daughter. The daughter must be present for this meeting to make sure everyone is on the same page. If the issue continues to be unresolved, the parent may request a meeting with the athletic director, the coach, and the student-athlete all present. These steps must be followed in this order.
- Transportation: Each team's transportation will function differently this year to meet the COVID guidelines. Coaches will set up a transportation calendar with the parents.
- Drugs, Alcohol, and Social Media: The girls were all reminded to make good choices outside of school and to surround themselves with people who have common goals and will support their commitment to being a student-athlete. Most discipline issues involve poor use of social media.
